Pine Canyon Names New Director of Agronomy

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (September 12, 2017) – Pine Canyon, a private master-planned golf course and residential community in Flagstaff, Arizona, has named Andy Huber as its new directory of agronomy. Huber joined the club in August.

Huber brings nearly two decades of experience to his new role with Pine Canyon, serving most recently in a similar capacity at Wickenburg Ranch, a residential and golf community about 90 minutes from Phoenix. Beyond Arizona, Huber’s experience includes time spent at properties in Colorado, Massachusetts, Portugal and Anguilla, providing him with the chance to navigate diverse cultures, languages and landscapes. He has a wealth of experience at Troon properties, and has a familiarity with northern Arizona, having spent time at Prescott Lakes early in his career.

“Andy exhibits a passion and diligence for the health of the grounds he manages, which is key to his new role with us at Pine Canyon,” Marty Hoeffken, Pine Canyon General Manager, said. “His warm personality and his commitment to excellence are a great fit for our community and club.”

During his 10 years at Wickenburg Ranch, Huber navigated a professionally inspiring and challenging spectrum of growth and static activity as the community thrived at the outset and transitioned to a temporary holding pattern in response to the economic downturn. Huber and his team remained committed to the community’s long-term vision, despite short-term difficulties, and witnessed rewarding returns during the economic recovery.

Huber earned his bachelor’s degree in agronomy at Purdue University.
